Why Redbrik Le~~t~~tings

Winner of the Best Estate Agent Guide for seven years running.

Our lettings service is multi-award winning, and here's why...

Rental Value

A good agent will get you the best rent; a great agent will keep it there. At Redbrik, annual rent appraisals and increases are standard to keep your asset in line with market value and maximise return.

Finding You 'The One'

An in-depth pre-qualification and tenant referencing process ensures we'll only recommend tenants who suit your asset, not just the first ones through the door.

Personal Contact

Do away with the pillar and the post. Once your property is under management, we believe in personal, consistent service, with one Asset Manager dealing with all your needs.

Fees

One of the biggest complaints in our industry is against charging additional fees. Our fees are upfront and transparent with no hidden costs that surprise you when you receive your statement.

Safe & Sound

Non-compliant landlords can face a fine of up to £30,000. With Redbrik, your legal obligations are closely monitored and renewed as necessary, giving you peace of mind. This has never been more critical with the introduction of the Renters' Rights Act.

Keeping you legal.

We keep an eye on legislation updates, so you don't have to.

The Government is currently implementing the provisions of the Renters' Rights Act, the biggest shake-up to Lettings property legislation since 1988. Being members of both The Property Ombudsman and ARLA, we get the latest information and will stay ahead of big changes so you won't be caught out. It is also vitally important that a tenant's deposit is registered in a government-authorised scheme within 30 days of receipt.

01. Gas Safety Certificates

Every rental property with gas appliances needs to have a valid gas safety certificate carried out every 12 months.

02. EICRs

All properties must now have a satisfactory EICR before and during tenancies. These certificates last up to five years.

03. Energy Performance Certificate

By law, every rental property needs an energy performance certificate with a minimum rating of E. EPCs are valid for 10 years.

04. Fire Regulations

Smoke and CO alarms are required in specific locations in all rented homes, and additional fire safety rules may apply depending on the property and type of let.

Move-in day

Following your valuation, the Property Consultant will discuss what your property needs in order to achieve the best rent and the perfect tenant. Getting your property 'rent ready' will save you headaches and unnecessary maintenance further down the line. The full process from marketing to move-in happens within two weeks on average, so it's important your property is ready for your new tenants.

01. Cleaning

Empty properties collect dust and can often feel unwelcoming. Give the home a thorough clean ahead of viewings and new tenancies to make a great first impression.

02. Decorating

Make sure colour schemes are up-to-date and any wear and tear is rectified prior to marketing to boost your property's desirability as much as possible.

03. Appliance Manuals

The easiest way to prevent appliances from being broken through misuse is to leave a specific manual for each appliance in the property.

04. Light Bulbs

Save hassle at the end of the tenancy by making sure all light fittings and bulbs work. That way, the tenants must do the same when they move out.

05. Mattress Protectors

Adding a protector will make sure any mattresses in your furnished property see out their 10 year lifespan and are clean for all future tenants.

06. Insurance

Insuring your building is a must, but contents insurance will include your public liability cover. Make sure you're protected in any event.
